It was announced that the corporation's capital for handling the 1914 wheat crop would be $500,000,000.

Mr. Barnes reported to the stockholders that during the 21 months of its existence the corporation has disbursed $2,500,000,000 and collected an equal amount, selling for overseas shipments commodities valued at $1,800,000,000 at an operating expense of $3,250,000, or one-sixth of one per cent.

DILLON DEFENDS CATHOLIC SCHOOLS

Declares That Church Has Right to Found Parochial Institutions.

In his introductory lecture before the students attending the University of Notre Dame summer school, given on Tuesday afternoon, the Rev. John A. Dillon, superintendent of the Catholic schools in the diocese of Newark, N. J., held that the Catholic church has the right to found schools, also to supervise and inspect them.

"In order to shield her from error," Dr. Dillon said, "the Catholic church has an indirect right to guard and inspect the teachings not regarded as religious in a narrow sense."

"The secularist is continually asking the question whether education is religious. He does not see the necessity of mixing religion with instruction. It is because of this opinion that we Catholics have been confronted with the problem of establishing and maintaining the great system known as the parochial school system."

The lecturer reviewed the history of Catholic education, dwelling in particular on universities and the work of the great religious orders and the educators of the middle ages, holding that all education during that time proceeded from the church.

Dr. Dillon spoke of the facts in the early history of this country which forced the Catholics to establish and keep up a system of schools whereby a course of instruction would be given in the secular branches of knowledge which would favorably compare with that which is likely to be received elsewhere, and above all this secular training to give a thorough formation of character, based on sound moral principles and ennobled and fortified by religious influences.

"This is the problem," Dr. Dillon said, "that was presented to the Catholics of this country and this problem is being solved by the child, the parent, the teacher and the Catholic church."

CITY TO WELCOME TRANSPORT FLEET

Mayor Makes Plans for Turning the Event Into Big Holiday.

Mayor Carson is making plans for the reception here of the United States army motor transport corps which is on a transcontinental tour from Washington, D. C., to San Francisco, Calif.

It will probably arrive the middle of July.

A patriotic pageant is the plan of the mayor. He will in the next few days appoint several committees who will have charge of the reception. Cities along the route are planning big receptions and celebrations for the corps which represents men who have fought for months in the world war.

Several of the cities plan to make the day a real gala event and one that will go down in history as one of the most elaborate celebrations that has ever taken place. Welcome home celebrations for soldiers and the ratification of the signing of the peace terms have been intermingled in the welcoming of Uncle Sam's largest fleet of motor transport that has traveled across the states from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast.

The huge fleet contains men from practically every branch of the army. Huge searchlights will be demonstrated in the principal cities by members of the signal corps. Members of the engineering units are included in the men to accompany the motor transports.

Besides going across the states to arouse patriotism and help cities with big peace celebrations, government observers will be included to map out a route that will be most helpful to coast to coast tourists.

How extensive South Bend will enter into the event has not fully been decided by the mayor. The government officials at Washington have requested him to begin preparations for welcoming the fleet.
